Question: hoshimaseok is up to no good. Track him down.

Solution: Using https://www.namecheckr.com/ we can see that the user is on reddit and github which interest us. Since the chall is named "commit"'ment, I stuck with github.

Now when you go through the repos in SomethingFishy in the dev branch you see a bunch of random code, but when you check the commit history, you see .gitignore was updated twice. Checking the state of files at that point of time, you can see an env file in one instance which has the flag.
